

STUART-MOSBY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The STUART-MOSBY HISTORICAL SOCIETY is a non-profit organization established to research and preserve accurate history and to perpetuate the memory and deeds of General J. E. B. Stuart and Colonel John S. Mosby. Perhaps the best description of the goals of the SOCIETY is given in the mission statement:

- 1 To promote the study of the lives and military accomplishments of General J. E. B. Stuart and Colonel John S. Mosby.
- 2 To share our knowledge of these individuals with others through publications, talks, and appropriate ceremonies whenever and wherever possible.
- 3 To honor General Stuart and Colonel Mosby annually on the event of their births.
- 4 To preserve, promote and provide an accurate understanding of the history of Confederate arms, particularly the mounted arm.
- 5 To secure, when possible, important artifacts that can be directly associated with General Stuart and Colonel Mosby.
- 6 To ensure that the collected artifacts of the Society are preserved and held in a safe place that is accessible to members of the SOCIETY and reputable scholars.
- 7 To work through all possible avenues to ensure that monuments, markers, artifacts, and public presentations on all aspects of Confederate history and arms are maintained and held in honor.
- 8 To promote communication between members of the SOCIETY.
- 9 To maintain a viable and active membership in the SOCIETY that is in full agreement with the above objectives.

The SOCIETY currently sponsors a Lee-Jackson Day Ceremony in the State Capital in Richmond, Virginia on the Saturday closest to January 19. Ceremonies are held each February and December to mark the birthdays of General Stuart and Colonel Mosby, respectively. On numerous occasions, the SOCIETY offers a tour of sites of importance to the history of these Confederate officers. The SOCIETY maintains a collection of important artifacts and papers. A bimonthly newsletter, entitled "The Southern Cavalry Review" is published by the SOCIETY and is sent free of charge to members in good standing. Numerous members of the SOCIETY are authors of books and papers relative to General Stuart and Colonel Mosby and the SOCIETY has also taken a direct hand in the publication of letters and notes from these men. When possible, publications are made available to members at attractive prices.

Members of the SOCIETY are encouraged to be active participants and to share in the fellowship and responsibilities of the SOCIETY. There are many opportunities to engage in historical work, SOCIETY business and meetings as well as represent the SOCIETY where needed. We want our members to feel welcome and to be part of the organization!
